

Sandra Trittin

Sandra Trittin began her career at a management consultancy working in the areas of process optimization/ restructuring and supply chain management for different companies in the automotive, food processing and telecommunications industry.

She joined Swisscom in 2002 reorganizing process and organizational structures to increase process efficiency for the service delivery and network construction, before to take the lead of software design/development teams for the construction of IP based communication services. She later joined the strategy team of Swisscom.

Sandra is since 2012 co-founder and Chief of Business of tiko Energy Solutions.

Sandra studied business administration and holds an MBA of the Business Schools of Mannheim, Copenhagen and Warwick.